Campus Celebrates A Model for Living and Learning Campaign

Today the University of Minnesota, Morris premieres a video celebrating campaign priorities and progress.

Earlier this month the University of Minnesota, Morris launched its $21 million *A model for living and learning* campaign. Today the campus premieres a video celebrating campaign priorities and progress.

UMM intends to raise \$21 million to invest in:

- Student experiences
- Faculty leaders
- Historic facilities
- Future of the region

Successful completion of the campaign will distinguish the Morris campus as a model for living and learning.

As the campaign enters its public phase, Chief Development Officer Susan Schmidgall is pleased to report UMM is more than halfway toward its $21 million goal. The impact of these gifts, she says, is the most exciting aspect of the campaign's progress.

"The impact of campaign giving to-date is the most important aspect of our progress: more than 100 new scholarships; our first-ever endowed professorship; a new history center for the library and an outdoor sculpture for the campus; and, our new EcoStation, which will become a research platform for the benefit of all," she says. "This is an exciting time for UMM, and we thank you for your support."
